1 Third Party Releases

Topic 1: Third Party Releases

Discussion Topics

- The Purdue decision on non-consensual releases
  - Its impact on mass tort and other bankruptcy cases
- What are consensual releases?
- Workarounds – gatekeeper provisions and chapter 15 recognition

Topic 1: Third Party Releases (cont'd)

Non-Consensual Releases - Harrington v. Purdue Pharma L. P., 144 S. Ct. 2071 (2024)

- Facts
  - Purdue Pharma L.P. filed for chapter 11 protection in in the Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of New York on September 15, 2019, to address growing litigation surrounding its manufacture of the opioid pain reliever, OxyContin.
  - The former owners of Purdue, members of the Sackler family, sought to contribute over four billion dollars to Purdue's bankruptcy estate in exchange for a discharge of any current and future opioid-related claims for alleged actions while the company's owners. The plan was confirmed on September 17, 2021.
  - The confirmation order was vacated on appeal at the district court, but a Second Circuit panel reversed the district court and reinstated the plan in May of 2023 (with some modifications, including more than $1 billion in additional monetary contributions from the Sacklers).
  - The United States Trustee filed an application with the Supreme Court to stay the Second Circuit's decision, which the Court granted and ultimately treated as a petition for a writ of certiorari. Oral argument was held in December 2023.

Topic 1: Third Party Releases (cont'd)

Non-Consensual Releases - Harrington v. Purdue Pharma L. P., 144 S. Ct. 2071 (2024)

- Holding
  - The Bankruptcy Code does not authorize a release and injunction that, as part of a chapter 11 plan of reorganization, effectively seek to discharge claims against a nondebtor without the consent of affected claimants.
  - Discharge under section 524(e) of the Bankruptcy Code operates for the benefit of the debtor, and the Sacklers sought what essentially amounted to a discharge without having to file their own bankruptcy petition or place all of their assets on the table.
  - The catchall of section 1123(b)(6), which allows a plan of reorganization to include "any other appropriate provision," does not permit a discharge of the Sacklers because section 1123's previous five sub-paragraphs concern the rights and responsibilities of the debtor. Accordingly, the catch-all should be read to authorize an adjustment of claims without consent only to the extent such claims concern the debtor. If Congress had meant to provide for third party releases, it would have done so expressly.

Topic 1: Third Party Releases (cont'd)

Consensual Releases

- The Purdue decision did not call into question consensual third-party releases or express a view on what qualifies as a consensual release.

- Related Issues
  - "Opt-Out" Structures
    - Pre-Purdue
      - An opt-out structure may be permissible if: (i) the disclosure of the opt-out is "prominent and conspicuous" and (ii) the mechanism for opting-out is simple (i.e., check a box). In re Arsenal Intermediate Holdings, LLC, 2023 WL 2655592 (Bankr. D. Del. Mar. 27, 2023).
    - Post-Purdue
      - Failure to return an opt-out form does not amount to consent and releases obtained through an opt-out structure rendered related third-party releases nonconsensual and, thus, impermissible. In re Red Lobster Management LLC, No. 24-02486 (GER) (Bankr. M.D. Fla. July 26, 2024); In re Ebix, Inc., No. 23-80004 (SWE) (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Aug. 2, 2024).

Topic 1: Third Party Releases (cont'd)

Consensual Releases

- Related Issues
  - "Sophistication"
    - Does the "sophistication" of a party (i.e., their presumed familiarity with the bankruptcy process), impact what the appropriate mechanism for eliciting consent is?
    - In re Endo International plc., No. 22-22549 (JLG) (S.D.N.Y. Bankr. Jan. 16, 2024)
      - Parties presumed to be familiar with the bankruptcy process were generally deemed to opt in to releases unless they affirmatively opted out, while parties presumed to be less familiar with the bankruptcy process were generally required to affirmatively opt in. Parties who opted in and granted releases were entitled to enhanced recoveries.

Topic 1: Third Party Releases (cont'd)

Workarounds

- Gatekeeper Provisions
  - Plan provisions that require claimants to proceed first in the bankruptcy court against certain non-debtor parties - e.g., exculpated parties.
  - Nexpoint Advisors, L.P. v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P. (In re Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P.), 48 F.4th 419, 426-27 (5th Cir. 2022).
    - Post-confirmation, the bankruptcy court, as gatekeeper - first, determines whether any party seeking to bring a claim against an exculpated party has a "colorable claim;" second, authorizes the party to bring the claim; and third, if the bankruptcy court has jurisdiction over the merits, adjudicates the claim.
- Chapter 15 Recognition
  - Prior to Purdue, chapter 15 recognition provided an avenue to approve non-consensual third-party releases embodied in a foreign restructuring plan or scheme.
  - This approach to implementing nonconsensual releases was regularly approved in the Second Circuit.
  - A foreign insolvency proceeding will be granted comity after determining (i) whether the foreign court had jurisdiction, and (ii) whether enforcement will prejudice the rights of U.S. citizens or violate public policy.
  - In re Avanti Commc'ns Grp. PLC, 582 B.R. 603 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2018).
    - Holding: the bankruptcy court granted comity to a scheme of arrangement sanctioned by a Court in England that included nonconsensual third-party releases.

2 Sub Rosa Plan Issues

Topic 2: Sub Rosa Plan Issues

Discussion Topics

- Equity-linked DIPs and Backstop Agreements
  - Why are they problematic?
  - Can limits be placed on them that make them more acceptable?
- Lock-Up Agreements
  - What are the limits on lock-up agreements?
  - When is too early? What information and/or circumstances drives whether a lock up is appropriate?

Topic 2: Sub Rosa Plan Issues (cont'd)

Equity-Linked DIPs

- DIP loans that can be repaid in reorganized equity, and which are approved before the plan process and before plan valuation has been determined.

Equity-Linked Backstop Agreements

- Agreements that permit lenders to convert DIP loans received on account of their backstop commitment into equity in the reorganized company.

Recent Cases

- In re WeWork, Inc., No. 23-19865 (JKS) (Bankr. D.N.J. Nov. 6, 2023).
  - The debtors sought approval of an "Exit DIP New Money Facility" facility which provided equitization rights to certain prepetition secured creditors for funding the chapter 11 cases.
  - The debtors' former CEO, Adam Neumann, objected, claiming that the arrangement amounted to a sub-rosa plan because it improperly sought court approval of the debtors' entry into a disguised $400 million investment of equity capital in the reorganized debtors outside of the confirmation process.
  - The court overruled Neumann's objection on the grounds that the equity-linked portion of DIP was subject to separate and later approval of the court in connection with confirmation.

Topic 2: Sub Rosa Plan Issues (cont'd)

- In re Enviva Inc., No. 24-10453 (BFK) (Bankr. E.D. Va. Mar. 12, 2024).
  - The proposed Debtor in Possession loans allowed participating shareholders to convert their loans into equity at a to-be-determined discounted rate. The UCC objected, claiming this arrangement violated the absolute priority rule by allowing equity holders to be paid before unsecured creditors.
  - The court found that the equity being distributed to shareholders was on account of their new capital contributions ($100 million of the $500 million DIP facility) rather than on account of their preexisting equity stakes. An appeal is pending.

Topic 2: Sub Rosa Plan Issues (cont'd)

Lock-Up Agreements

- Agreements that contain provisions that restrict or condition a lender or counterparty's right to vote on a plan.
- In re GOL Linhas Aéreas Inteligentes S.A., No. 24-10118 (MG) (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. Apr. 22, 2024).
  - The debtors asked the Bankruptcy Court to approve a series of stipulations and agreements with lessor counterparties that contained lock-up provisions, which obligated those counterparties to vote in favor of a forthcoming plan even though it would be months before a disclosure statement or plan would be filed.
  - The Bankruptcy Court noted that lock-up provisions may be permissible if (i) there is sufficient information available about the plan that creditors were committing to vote for, and (ii) creditors had meaningful choice to willingly agree during the negotiation phase, or to rescind later based on new information.
  - Applying this standard, the court found that the lock-up agreements were unenforceable because the counterparties did not have adequate information of the plan's terms at such an early stage of the case.

3 Liability Management

Topic 3: Liability Management

Discussion Topics

- Liability Management Transactions
  - How are these transactions structured?
  - What challenges are they susceptible to?
  - What are the expectations for the future?

Topic 3: Liability Management (cont'd)

Background

- Companies often choose to pursue out-of-court "liability management" transactions to address issues in their capital structures without resorting to formal insolvency proceedings.
- Certain types of liability management transactions may face challenges in court by creditors who do not receive the benefit of such transactions, and such litigation can ultimately push a company closer to a chapter 11 filing, the very outcome that liability management transactions generally strive to avoid.

Types of Liability Management Transactions

- Uptier Transactions
  - A borrower partners with a coalition of creditors sufficient to approve an amendment to the existing financing documents to allow the borrower to issue new, senior-secured debt that, in substance, primes the existing secured debt held by creditors that did not participate in the transaction.
    - Wesco Aircraft Holdings, Inc. v. SSD Investments Ltd. (In re Wesco Aircraft Holdings, Inc.), Case No. 23-90611, Adv. No. 23-3091 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. July 10, 2024) (Incora).
      - The bankruptcy court unwound a prepetition uptier transaction, restoring the prepetition liens of non-participating creditors. There remains an open question as to whether participating noteholders are entitled to equitable relief for their prepetition contribution, or whether will they be left with only a general unsecured claim.

Topic 3: Liability Management (cont'd)

Types of Liability Management Transactions

- Double DIP Transactions
  - » Structure: (i) a new debt issuance by a nonguarantor subsidiary, (ii) an intercompany loan from the nonguarantor subsidiary to the existing credit group (the first dip) utilizing some amount of the proceeds of the new debt, and (iii) a direct or indirect guarantee of the new debt by other entities within the borrower's organizational structure (the second dip).
  - » In the summer of 2023, "Double Dip" financing transactions emerged as a popular strategy for companies seeking to raise short term capital amid soaring interest rates.
  - > In re Wheel Pros, LLC d/b/a/ Hoonigan, No. 24-11939 (JTD) (Bankr. D. Del. Sept. 9, 2024).
    - > Wheel Pros became the first entity that participated in the recent surge of "Double Dip" financing transactions to declare bankruptcy in September 2024.

4 Developments in Examiner Appointments

Topic 4: Developments in Examiner Appointments

Discussion Topics

- Examiners - the FTX decision on mandatory appointment
  - How much influence will the decision have?
  - Does the decision encourage forum shopping?
  - Does the decision give creditors undue leverage?

Topic 4: Developments in Examiner Appointments (cont'd)

Mandatory Examiner Appointments

- Bankruptcy Code Section 1104(c)(2)
  - "[O]n request of a party in interest or the United States trustee, and after notice and a hearing, the court shall order the appointment of an examiner to conduct such an investigation of the debtor as is appropriate, including an investigation of any allegations of fraud, dishonesty, incompetence, misconduct, mismanagement, or irregularity in the management of the affairs of the debtor of or by current or former management of the debtor, if the debtor's fixed, liquidated, unsecured debts, other than debts for goods, services, or taxes, or owing to an insider, exceed $5,000,000.
- In re FTX Trading Ltd., 91 F.4th 148 (3d Cir. 2024).
  - The U.S. Trustee moved for the appointment of an examiner pursuant to section 1104(c)(2) of the Bankruptcy Code following allegations of prepetition fraud, embezzlement, and corporate mismanagement. Noting that the appointment of an examiner was discretionary under the Bankruptcy Code, the Bankruptcy Court denied the motion.
  - Holding: Appointment of an examiner under section 1104(c)(2) of the Bankruptcy Code is mandatory if statutory thresholds are satisfied. Based on section 1104(c)(2)'s plain language, the Bankruptcy Court did not have discretion to deny the U.S. Trustee's motion.
